

Go Fishing for a Law

What you need:

Law cards, make sure you have enough for one set for each girl playing then print 5 extra sets to have cards to pick from.

How to play:

Object of this game is to collect the whole law (10 cards) The first person to collect all 10 wins the game. Unless your girls know the law by heart be sure to have a copy of the 10 cards they need somewhere visible.

1. Cut out all the cards and then shuffle them.
2. Give each girl 10 cards have them keep them hidden from rest of girls. The rest of the cards should be spread out in the middle of group and choose a girl to go first.
3. Unless she's lucky enough to be holding each of the 10 law, she must ask any other player for the card that she needs such as Honest and Fair.
4. If the person asked has the card, the person has to hand it over and that person must pick a new card from pile (so everyone always has 10 cards in hand). If not, the person asked says, "Go fish for a law!" The girl looking for the card fishes in the pile, takes a card, and discards one that she doesn't want, mixing it in among the other cards.
5. The girl to her left takes the next turn, and so on.
6. The first girl to collect the law wins the game.
